Dear Chris and Michele,

We hope this letter finds you well and enjoying the summer.

We are in the midst of our Maine Summer Expedition with a group of students from around the country. Our focus is on deepening their walks with God through experiential learning, Bible Study, and grace and truth community.

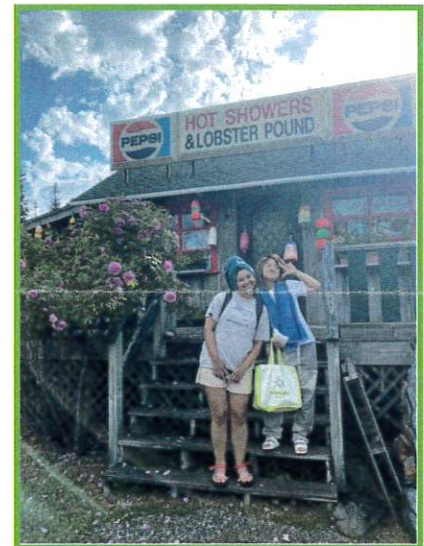

Much of the learning with students on these expeditions comes through outdoor adventure and learning activities. We take them white water rafting, hiking, paddle boarding, rock climbing, and sea kayaking. All of these activities are full of life lessons that point to healthy and growing relationships with God, with others, and with themselves.

We begin each morning with an hour of Bible Study in the letter to the Galatians. The focus of that time is intimacy with God and learning to treasure the Gospel.

Our time as a group has been full of laughter, life stories, tears, and good food. I've been designated "Camp Dad Bob" as I'm doing most of the food prep for the team. In reality, Judy planned the menu and did all the shopping!

We are in tents the whole time so showers are a valuable find. The photo to the right is of two of the students after using the coin-operated showers. Perhaps only in Maine would you find the sign, "Hot Showers & Lobster Pound!" This delighted the students and it made me laugh because the showers are highlighted above the lobster!

Thank you so very much for the part you play in building into these young people. The impact of this trip lasts far beyond our time together.
